Content

In this 30 EC semester (year 2, block 1 and block 2) you will demonstrate your MIC competences as International Communication Consultant. Your specific professional role is self-chosen and you will take a pro-active attitude in acquiring your international graduation project. Your project is international communication problem based and requires a strategic solution for involved stakeholder(s). The preparation phase of the graduation project starts in block 1.3 of year 1 and consists of client acquisition, topic approval and research project proposal. After the approval of your graduation topic, you will independently work on your proposal. Students must achieve at least 45 ECs from year 1 and receive a 'GO' on research project proposal in order to commence the execution (main) phase of the graduation period that starts in September in year 2. You are supported with professional guidance and coaching.

The Master Graduation Project in international communication allows a student to become an expert in the area of his/her personal or career interests as a communication professional. The Master Graduation Project builds on all knowledge gained during the previous semesters. The student carries out his/her consultancy-based graduation project under academic supervision, either as part of an in-company internship or in close cooperation with an organization (i.e. an established profit or not for profit organization whose functions include communication in an international and/or intercultural setting).

The student can also choose to write his/her consultancy-based graduation project on an energy related topic, and if he/she fulfils the additional requirements (energy related projects/assignment), then he/she can obtain a Certificate in the Focal Area Energy.

The final assessment is a graduation portfolio and criterion-based interview.
