Inhoud

As the world gets more and more complex, the developments and innovations go faster and information reaches people and consumers at an increasing speed. Society's demands to organisations are getting higher and higher concerning personnel, customers and environment.

Many organisations keep Corporate Social Responsibility in mind by using the principles the triple bottom line: People, Planet Profit. This module briefly considers CSR, the why's, the how's and the what's in the introduction of the tutorials.

The aim of teaching CSR in this block is:

- the student will become acquainted with CSR and the backgrounds;
- the student gains insight regarding the relation between CSR and innovation management;
- the student learns some skills regarding the use of CSR-methods and CSR-standards regarding the development of a new service or product;
- the student practices in analysing CSR performances of a chosen company.
