Inhoud

In the course Professional Practices students are required to organise and curate an exhibition in preparation of the semester 7 assessments. They need to take into account not only the context of the exhibition space but also the practical needs of the display and the objects/artworks to be displayed, as well as various possible interpretations provoked by the way the work is presented. This course also includes professional communication, positioning workshops and discussions. This focus enables students to situate their own creative practice within the contemporary moment. Students show advanced skills in oral, written and physical presentation as well as approaches to contextual research.
