Inhoud

The work of a game artist involves working on top of already existing technology made by others. It is the job of the artist to understand, structure and analyse what elements need to be worked on before initiating the creation of assets. Using both 2D and 3D techniques within the user interface and actual game there skin needs to fully revamp the product to a theme given by the teachers.

The student must be able to reskin this game in a coherent way using the most recent development techniques to ensure interfaces are responsive, game elements are optimized and the game's workings are unaltered.
