Inhoud

The subject of group dynamics is taught in the context of a 4-5 day project. Participating students form student groups amongst themselves and create a piece of art/music which they present at an unusual stage or context. Students are working with existing repertoire or create their own pieces.

During the second phase of this subject the students again form student groups for an art making project. They are inviting small groups of pupils into this creative process and will lead the project themselves. Again the project results will be presented.
